To Whom It May Concern:

It is with great honor that I recommend Humberto Ayala or Huey. I was in charge of the repainting of Southwest Airline into the new paint scheme. I first met Huey when Southwest Airlines moved the repainting of aircraft from New Iberia, La to Portland, Or in 2001.

Southwest painted numerous aircraft at this facility and with many different paint schemes. Huey ensured that Southwest Airline repaint program high standards were met along with staying on schedule. It was not uncommon to observe Huey working along side the other employees mentoring and instructing on proper technique and procedure. This was also observed on the FedEx and Oregon National Guard aircraft.

Huey has the ability to embrace any new challenge with little difficulty. He holds a high standard for quality and workmanship. Huey has exceptional communication skill with his co-worker and with the customer. I highly recommend Huey for any repainting operation of wide and narrow body aircraft because of his knowledge and experience.

Best Regard,
